

MuirMcNeil Wormhole is a modular type system designed in seven styles.

All seven Wormhole typefaces are designed to be combined, interacting in multiple layers with each other and with all of the weights of the MuirMcNeil Worm system.

Contours across the range are fully compatible so they can be mapped onto each other by the user working with page layout or vector drawing software. A huge range of visual options can be easily generated and applied in print, interactive or motion graphics environments.
